The veil between the worlds is thinnest at Hallow's Eve. It is the time when we honor the ancestors who have moved on to the spirit world. Throughout this year we have planted and cared for the growing plants with water, weeding, and pruning. We harvested our bountiful crop at Fall Equinox and took with us the precious seeds which we will keep safe, dream upon, and nurture in the darkness of winter. We are sated, healthy, and ready to move into the dark in order to see more fully.

As we cross the veil and move into the dark of winter, we come face to face with our deepest fears, those things that would hold us back from nurturing our dreams into reality. And like the temple snakes whose cycles of growth and shedding symbolize the eternal circle of life and death, eternal regeneration, we will take this opportunity to shed those fears which are keeping us from progressing along our path and achieving our goals. For the altar, bring a jar candle and, if you wish, a photo of a loved one, an ancestor you would like to honor at this time of the year..

Join us as we honor the dark and connect with our ancestors this Hallow's Eve. We ask the ancestors for guidance for the Earth, ourselves, each other, and community, through dance, song, and sacred enactment. Bring musical instruments to be joyfully played during the ritual enactment. Light refreshment will be served afterwards.
